Alma Capital Commitments

ESG - Gramercy Approach

- ESG considerations and factors are deeply integrated into Gramercy's proprietary bottom-up investment process. While the process begins with some high level exclusions of weapons, tobacco and pornography, we go beyond that by constructing an optimal portfolio cognizant of the various ESG factors of issuers.
- A proprietary, automated pre-screen tool allows the analysts to check for any firm or client level restrictions or limitations that might influence an investment decision in an effort to avoid unnecessary work. We rely on external data providers to score credits and we use these scores as a starting point for our own ESG research and potential score modification.
- The outputs of our ESG research influence security selection and portfolio construction as ESG scores are weighed on an absolute and relative basis.
- Practiced informally as a benefit for a socially minded client base since the inception of the firm, Gramercy created a formal ESG Policy in 2011. Gramercy became Signatories to The Principles for Responsible Investing ("PRI") in 2014 and Signatories to Net Zero Asset Manager's initiative and Supporters of TCFD in 2022.

Commentary - Gramercy - June <sup>(7)</sup>

While risk sentiment remained broadly positive in June, investor conviction was tested by more mixed macroeconomic data that kept the U.S. Treasury market volatile and investors questioning the type of landing that the U.S. economy would experience. The month started with JOLTS data showing that job openings hit the lowest level since 2021, causing the 10-yr U.S. Treasury to rally by 22bps; however, this move reversed the following week as the resilience narrative was reinforced by data that showed a rebound in payroll employment, wage growth and income. Then, the week after that, the 10-yr U.S. Treasury rallied again by 25bps after a lower-than-expected CPI print in the U.S. was interpreted as an important move towards the Fed's 2% inflation target. The Fed then surprised the market with much more hawkish rhetoric following its meeting where it left rates unchanged and said it saw only one rate cut in 2024. This caused the 10-yr U.S. Treasury to sell off by 17bps, ending the month at 4.39% (approximately 10bps lower than at the end of May). Outside of the U.S., the ECB completed its first rate cut, kicking off their rate cutting cycle, with Lagarde pointing to additional potential cuts while remaining cautious. In this context, the Fund (I USD ACC) returned 0.26% compared to the JPM EM Equal Weight TR Index return of 0.15%.

Under these relatively volatile top-down conditions, hard currency emerging markets debt was resilient in June, with positive returns in both sovereigns and corporates. Hard currency corporates, as represented by the CEMBI Broad Diversified Index, outperformed (+0.9% return) on the back of higher carry and relatively flat spreads while hard currency sovereigns, as represented by the EMBI Global Diversified index, had more muted returns (+0.6%) as spread widening in the high yield bucket partially offset the positive impact of carry. Local currency sovereigns, as represented by the GBI-Broad diversified index, experienced more volatility and negative total returns (-1.1%) in June in the context of broader global macroeconomic uncertainties and the lingering impact of surprising election results in South Africa, Mexico and India.

During the month of June, performance for the Fund largely benefited from our top-down allocation to hard currency corporates over sovereigns and our underweight allocation to local currency sovereigns. Our selection within hard currency corporates also contributed positively to the fund in June, particularly in Brazil, the UAE, India and Saudi Arabia. These factors were partially offset by our exposure in Mexico, particularly in local currency, which continued to be impacted, albeit marginally, by post-election concerns regarding future fiscal slippage at the government level.
